INTRODUCTION

University of Galway

University of Galway is located on the banks of the River Corrib about 10-minute walk from the centre of Galway City. From Queen's College to National University of Ireland, the University's past is intertwined with the history of Galway and Ireland. Founded in 1845 with an initial intake of 63 students, University of Galway is now a thriving institution with over 19,000 full and part-time students, of whom 3,972 are international students representing over 115 countries across the globe and making up over 20% of the student population.

University of Galway is comprised of the College of Arts, Social Sciences, and Celtic Studies; College of Science & Engineering; College of Business, Law and Public Policy and College of Medicine, Nursing and Health Sciences. The University offers a wide range of undergraduate and postgraduate degrees and diplomas of international standard, providing students with opportunities for personal and academic development, as well as giving them the knowledge and skills needed to pursue successful careers. The University's approach to innovative programme development means that courses are developed to reflect the ever-changing needs of society, the labour market and the economy.

The Centre for Adult Learning and Professional Development Office at University of Galway runs a series of part-time, flexible learning programmes for adult learners. Flexible learning options are available in Humanities and Social Sciences, Engineering, Science and Technology Studies. The International Summer School Office operates under the auspices of Centre for Adult Learning and Professional Development.

In tandem with its extensive range of programmes, the University campus has expanded and developed. Over recent years, University of Galway has embarked on a visionary development programme aimed at improving the University's campus facilities and student amenities. This major investment programme includes planning for new buildings, as well as extensions and renovations of existing facilities. The University is well on the way to creating the Campus of the Future, welcoming more students each year, and developing a prestigious and innovative University.

International Summer School

The International Summer School at University of Galway offers programmes in Irish Studies, Irish Language, Business and International Management, Ecology, Geology and Archaeological field schools. It also provides academic credit for the Galway Archaeological Field School, Achill Archaeological Field School, Caherconnell Archaeological Field school and the Irish Field school of Prehistoric History.

ACADEMIC INFORMATION

Teaching Methods

Teaching will be by means of lectures, seminars, dramatic performances, movies, guided field trips and informed contact with the music, language and people of Ireland. An interdisciplinary approach will be used within each course and between the courses of the Irish Studies programme. Students will have access to library, audio and visual facilities of the University. Assessment for those requiring credit will be carried out on a continuous basis.

Credits

To quantify learning and to place a value on it, courses are divided up into credit units. Credits may vary; however, they represent a standard number of class contact hours and average workload for a programme. This workload includes lectures, practical work, seminars, educational excursions, field trips, private work and examinations. The use of the term credits is a common one among the third level sector and provides a “currency” with which students may transfer from one course to another or gain exemption from elements of a particular programme.

Each Irish Studies module carries 3 Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits at undergraduate level.

Assessments

Assessment for all students requiring credit for each 3 Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits course will be as follows:

1. Attendance at lectures, workshops/performances, fieldtrips and participation in seminars
2. Continuous assessment (through written assignments) and/or exam assessment.

All courses have a parity of assessment workload; details of exact assessment requirements will be provided at local course level.

Assessments guidelines will be provided by the Course Directors during introductory classes.

Graduate Credit

In addition to the assessment requirements above, an extended essay will be required for graduate credits. Graduate Students must arrange to meet with their course lecturer for essay topic approval.

Academic Integrity

Upholding academic integrity is fundamental to academic work and breeches are treated with appropriate seriousness. As with all programmes at the University of Galway, the Irish Studies Summer School subscribes to the Academic Integrity - University of Galway policy which sets out the code of practice for dealing with instances where students breach academic integrity by engaging in academic misconduct. Students should familiarise themselves with the parameters of academic misconduct and the details of the policy.

Canvas Learning System

All summer school students who have registered with University of Galway have automatic access to the Canvas Virtual Learning Environment. This includes access to course information, course announcements, course materials and general notifications.

It is your responsibility as a University of Galway student to regularly access Canvas and your University of Galway email account to keep up to date with:

- Course announcements
- Course materials
- Assignment requirements
- Assignment submission dates

Details on how to log into Canvas are available in the Canvas for Students online guide.

PROGRAMME OUTLINE

Academic Director: Dr. Méabh Ní Fhuartháin

This course will comprise an integrated introduction to Irish Studies incorporating elements from all the contributing disciplines, a series of interdisciplinary seminars focusing on key themes in Irish Studies such as Identity, Emigration, and Religion, and a broad range of elective courses as outlined below. The series of field trips is designed to complement the courses taught in the various modules and is an integral element in the overall course structure.

SS115 Representing Ireland - Literature and Film

SS116 The Archaeological Heritage of Ireland; from the First Settlers to Medieval Castles

SS117 Irish History; Conflict, Identity and the Shaping of Modern Ireland

SS119 Creative Writing: Poetry and Fiction

SS120 Gaelic Culture and Literature: From Cú Chulainn to the Cultural Revival & Beyond

SS121 Irish Society; Stasis and Change in the Ambiguous Republic

SS1153 Economic Policy in Ireland

SS115 Representing Ireland – Literature and Film

3 US Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits; Course Director: Dr. Tim Keane

The story of how Ireland and the Irish have been represented is ‘complicated’, to say the least – in both how Ireland has been imagined in the cultural and political consciousness of Britain and America, and in the struggle for self-definition that has been so central to Irish nationalism and anti-colonial resistance. Culture has been the first, and most important, battle ground in the movement towards ‘inventing’ Ireland and establishing a nation. This course will examine fiction, poetry, drama and film to explore the ways in which Irish writers have commented on various representations of Ireland. The course begins with poems by W.B. Yeats at the end of the nineteenth century and finishes with two films that were nominated for Academy Awards earlier this year. It is a broad survey course that links discussions of literature and film around themes like cultural nationalism, the representation of ‘The West’, the figure of the Irish peasant, the contrast between city and country, gender identity, and the shadows of violence. We will examine works from key twentieth and twenty-first century writers, including: W.B. Yeats, James Joyce, Frank O’Connor, Elizabeth Bowen, Seamus Heaney, Eavan Boland, Colum McCann and Claire Keegan. We will also view and discuss movies directed by American and Irish filmmakers.

SS116 Archaeological Heritage of Ireland; from the First Settlers to Medieval Castles

3 US Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits; Course Director: Dr. Mags Mannion

Ireland’s archaeological heritage is one of the richest in Western Europe. The development of prehistoric Irish societies can be seen in the megalithic tombs of the Neolithic, the wealth of bronze and gold in the succeeding Bronze Age, and in the great royal sites such as Tara and Navan, of the Celtic Iron Age. From the Early Christian Period, monastic ruins and high crosses survive at sites such as Clonmacnoise, while the finds from Dublin tell us of the Viking raids and settlement. The remains of later earth and timber fortifications and stone castles reveal the story of the Anglo-Norman invasion and subsequent power struggles.

This course charts the evidence for human societies in Ireland over ten millennia from the island’s initial colonization by small groups of hunter-gatherers, through to the Medieval period. The archaeology of the entire island of Ireland will be covered with particular emphasis on the archaeology of the Burren, a remarkable upland area just south of Galway where archaeological remains of all periods are well preserved and visible.

University of Galway is ideally positioned amongst some of Ireland's most well-preserved archaeological landscapes and this course includes two field trips to the first to explore the prehistoric archaeology of Cong in Co. Mayo and the second to visit the medieval Franciscan abbey in Claregalway, Co. Galway.

Course Outline

This course charts the evidence for human occupation in Ireland over ten millennia from the island's initial colonization by small groups of hunter-gatherers through to the Medieval period. The course addresses key themes such as 'Megalithic Tombs and the Age of the Ancestors,' 'The Age of Metal,' 'Iron Age Royal Sites,' 'The Arrival of Christianity,' 'The Vikings in Ireland,' etc. The archaeology of the entire island of Ireland will be covered. The course includes two field trips, the first to explore the prehistoric archaeology of Cong in Co. Mayo and the second to visit the medieval Franciscan abbey in Claregalway, Co. Galway

SS117 Irish History; Conflict, Identity and the Shaping of Modern Ireland 3 US Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits; Course Director: Dr. Tomas Finn

This course offers a broad survey of Irish history. The initial lecture will set the stage by considering some aspects of the early and medieval periods, but the principal focus will be on the modern centuries, beginning with the Tudor conquest of Ireland. By charting the history of Anglo-Irish relations through major political and military conflicts in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, special attention will be given to the British attempt to assimilate Ireland under the Act of Union from 1801. We will examine the mass social and political campaigns that emerged in the nineteenth century and the rise of the modern ideologies of Irish unionism and nationalism, including the influential Irish American dimension of the latter, which took shape in the decades after the Great Famine (1845-50). Ultimately the course will examine the undoing of the Union between Britain and Ireland in 1921, the nature of the partition agreement which underpinned the constitutional settlement at that time, and how sustained violent conflict in Northern Ireland from the late 1960s, forced politicians and political leaders in these islands and beyond, to revisit the 'Irish Question'.

The approach taken in this module is thematic. Classes will consist of a mixture of lectures and discussions; and to facilitate a closer treatment of one of the central themes of the course, a class debate will take place, mid-term, in one of the historic buildings in Galway. Choice readings and links to two award-winning documentaries will be made available on the electronic Blackboard site during term.

SS119 Creative Writing: Poetry, Fiction & Memoir 3 US Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits; Module Director: Dr Ryan Dennis

The ability to write well is not an innate talent reserved for the lucky few, but a craft that is earned slowly through paper cuts, piles of crumpled notes, and late hours spent revising. This module will take up the genres of fiction, nonfiction, and poetry, rigorously exploring what makes good writing, from the larger concepts of form to the mechanics of the sentence. Students' own work will be developed from idea to submission and will be the focus of workshopping exercises. Class time will be spent in lecture, completing writing exercises, and considering each other's work. Those who use the course properly can anticipate being a better writer by its conclusion. Module participants will also take part in several literary events around Galway City, under the supervision of the course director.

SS120 Gaelic Literature and Culture: From the Cultural Revival to the contemporary period

3 US Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits; Module Director: Dr Méabh Ní Fhuartháin; module lecturers: John Brady and Andrew Levie

This module will explore the emergence and development of modern Gaelic literature from the period of the Cultural Revival in the late-nineteenth century until the present day. Beginning at the end of the 19th century, the module will trace the growth of modern Irish literature from the Gaelic Revival to the present day. The module will look at a variety of themes in poetry and prose such as cultural nationalism, modernism, the urban/rural divide, concepts of authenticity and "Irishness", representations of masculinity and femininity, and Irish language/translation issues. Through reading selections of Gaelic prose and poetry in translation, students gain insights into the rapid changes within Gaelic culture from the nineteenth century as represented in literature.

On completion of this course, students will be able to analyse modern Irish language literature in translation based on the key literary concepts examined in class. Students will have an understanding of the contextual background which led to the Cultural Revival, and of the development of modern Irish language literature. They will also have gained a basic understanding of language issues which arise when examining a text in translation.

A knowledge of the Irish language is not a prerequisite for the course; all classes are through English. Introductory classes in the Irish language are provided to interested students.

SS121 Irish Society; Stasis and Change in the Ambiguous Republic

3 US Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits; Module Director: TBC

Irish society is interesting. Really interesting. It underwent a complex process of dramatic and relatively rapid social change over the 20th Century, propelling it from being a predominantly rural, Catholic, insular, and socially homogeneous society, to become one of the 'most globalized' countries in the world, all within just a few short decades. In some ways, it is much the same; in others, it is profoundly different.

In this module we explore, and explain, aspects of this process, and its effects on Irish society, mainly from a sociological perspective. Using the changing economy as a backdrop, we go on to explore transformations in key social institutions, such as religion, education, the family, the media, politics and power, and the changing role and position of women in Irish society. We will also address some of the problems and strains that have emerged, in part, because of these profound societal changes, such as social inequality and social class, immigration and race, and crime. The module is designed to be lively and engaging, and no previous knowledge of either sociology or Irish society is required. It will, however, provide a very useful backdrop to the experience of being in Ireland, and offer valuable and critical insights into 'Irish identity', and the ambiguities of social change for a small country in a global society.

SS1153 Economic Policy in Ireland

3 US Semester Credits/6 ECTS Credits; Module Director: Dr. Geraldine Doolan

This course is designed to provide students with the analytical and historical foundation for studying contemporary public policy issues in Ireland. It begins with a brief overview of how the Irish economy has evolved in the past 25 years and identifies and outlines a series of key public policy issues in areas such as health, housing, the environment, and social protection. It proceeds to develop an economics framework for analysing these issues which covers the concepts of efficiency, equity, market failure, welfare state, and cost benefit analysis. This framework is then applied to the various public policy issues identified earlier in the course. The course will include a field trip to Dublin to meet key policy advisors and analysts. Pre-requisite for this course is Principles of Microeconomics.

FIELD TRIPS

Field trips are an integral part of the Irish Studies Summer School and participation is mandatory. The field trips are relevant to the material covered in class and enhance the learning experience. They also offer the opportunity to experience parts of Ireland outside of Galway City.

All students at the Irish Studies Summer School will participate on three mandatory field trips.

Trip 1: Aillwee Caves and Caherconnell Stone Fort

Trip 2: Kylemore Abbey and Aughnanure Castle

Trip 3: Aran Islands and Cliffs of Moher Day Return Tour

Aillwee Caves is a fascinating underground attraction in County Clare, featuring dramatic caverns, waterfalls, and ancient geological formations. Guided tours explore stories of bears, fossils, and the region's natural history. Above ground, students can experience the Birds of Prey centre, where eagles, hawks, falcons, vultures, and owls are showcased by expert handlers who explain each species and their behaviours.

Caherconnell Stone Fort is a medieval ring fort located in the heart of the Burren, County Clare. The fort offers insight into early Irish life through its impressive dry-stone walls and archaeological discoveries. Visitors can enjoy interactive exhibits and sheepdog demonstrations that bring the area's heritage to life.

Kylemore Abbey is a stunning 19th-century abbey set beside a tranquil lake and surrounded by the mountains of Connemara, County Galway. Originally built as a private castle, it later became home to a Benedictine community of nuns and is rich in history, romance, and heritage. Visitors can explore the beautifully restored rooms, the neo-Gothic church, and the award-winning Victorian Walled Garden.

Aughnanure Castle

Aughnanure Castle is a well-preserved 16th-century tower house located near Oughterard in County Galway and was once the stronghold of the powerful O'Flaherty clan. The castle features thick stone walls, a spiral staircase, a banqueting hall, and a defensive bawn that reflect life in medieval Ireland. Guided tours bring the castle's turbulent history to life with stories of battles, sieges, and clan rivalries.

The Aran Islands and Cliffs of Moher Day Return Tour offers a memorable journey through some of Ireland's most iconic coastal landscapes. Visitors enjoy self-guided time exploring one of the Aran Islands, experiencing traditional Irish culture, ancient stone forts, and rugged island scenery. The tour also includes a cruise along the base of the Cliffs of Moher, providing breathtaking views of the towering sea cliffs from the Atlantic Ocean. This day trip combines history, culture, and dramatic natural beauty into one unforgettable experience.

Module Excursions

Each module will organise a specific field trip for students enrolled on that module.

Clothing for Field Trips

We organise our field trips well in advance of the summer school, but unfortunately, we cannot predict or control the weather. As Irish weather is unpredictable it is best to be prepared for rain or wind, especially on field trips which require you to be outside. Prepare to dress in layers and ensure that you have waterproof clothing and footwear for wet days and sunscreen for hotter days.

In some parts of rural Ireland, you may not be able to use a debit/credit card so ensure you bring cash with you.

We advise you to bring a packed lunch with you on the day trips.

MODULE OUTLINES

SS115 Representing Ireland: Literature and Film

6 ECTS/3 US Semester Credits

COURSE OBJECTIVE

The story of how Ireland and the Irish have been represented is ‘complicated’, to say the least – in both how Ireland has been imagined in the cultural and political consciousness of Britain and America, and in the struggle for self-definition that has been so central to Irish nationalism and anti-colonial resistance. Culture has been the first, and most important, battle ground in the movement towards ‘inventing’ Ireland and establishing a nation. This course will examine fiction, poetry, drama and film to explore the ways in which Irish writers have commented on various representations of Ireland. The course begins with poems by W.B. Yeats at the end of the nineteenth century and finishes with two recent critically acclaimed films. It is a broad survey course that links discussions of literature and film around themes like cultural nationalism, the representation of ‘The West’, the figure of the Irish peasant, the contrast between city and country, gender identity, and the lingering shadows of violence. We will examine works from key twentieth and twenty-first century writers, including: W.B. Yeats, James Joyce, Frank O’Connor, Seamus Heaney, Eavan Boland, Colum McCann and Claire Keegan. We will also view and discuss movies directed by American and Irish filmmakers.

COURSE TEXTS

1. James Joyce, Dubliners
2. Colum McCann, Everything in This Country Must
3. Claire Keegan, Small Things Like These

Additional material will be supplied as PDFs.

Films studied: Michael Collins (1996), The Guard (2011), An Cúilín Ciúin (2022), The Banshees of Inisherin (2022) and Kneecap (2024).

Additional material will be available on Canvas.

Week 1: Cultural Nationalism – Imagining the Nation

Monday, June 15th: Introduction*

Tuesday, June 16th @ 6pm: Cinema 1 – Michael Collins (1996)

Wednesday, June 16th: W.B. Yeats and the Celtic Revival: poems and one-act play

Wednesday, June 17th: Field Trip to Coole Park and Thoor Ballylee (departing Goldcrest Village at 9.30, return around 3.00 – bring a packed lunch)

Week 2: Fiction & the Free State

Monday, June 22nd: James Joyce, Dubliners (selected stories)

Cinema 2 @ 6pm – The Guard (2011)

Wednesday, June 24th: continue O’Connor & O’Faolain (short stories – PDF)

Cinema 3 @ 6pm – An Cúilín Ciúin (2022)

Friday, July 3rd – submit Essay on Canvas by 5pm

Week 4: Reassessments

Monday, July 6th: Colum McCann, Everything in this Country Must

Wednesday, July 8th: Claire Keegan, Small Things Like These

Friday, July 10th: Final exam (open book – no notes)

REQUIREMENTS FOR CREDITS

1. Attendance and participation in all regularly scheduled lectures and seminars 10%
2. Writing Journal – minimum 3 entries 15%
3. Essay (2,000 words) 40%
4. In-class final exam (open book) 35%

WRITING JOURNAL: You will need to complete a minimum of three short entries on Canvas where you explore a theme or question that arises from your reading of a primary text. You are encouraged to explore connections between texts and films, to expand on a theoretical idea as it relates to a primary text or posit questions that you begin to answer as best as you can. These entries will assess your engagement with the texts and lectures. Do not summarize. If you submit more than three, your top four scores will be used. These are short – think of it as a start of an argument, rather than a fully-realized idea. These will be useful for class discussions but also help you think about (and test ideas for) your essay and exam questions. You must submit your journal entry BEFORE the class where the text is discussed.

6ECTS/3 Semester Credits

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Ireland's archaeological heritage is one of the richest in Western Europe. The development of prehistoric Irish societies can be seen in the megalithic tombs of the Neolithic, the wealth of bronze and gold in the succeeding Bronze Age, and in the great royal sites such as Tara and Navan, of the Celtic Iron Age. From the Early Christian Period, monastic ruins and high crosses survive at sites such as Clonmacnoise, while the finds from Dublin tell us of the Viking raids and settlement. The remains of later earth and timber fortifications and stone castles reveal the story of the Anglo-Norman invasion and subsequent power struggles.

COURSE OUTLINE

This course charts the evidence for human societies in Ireland over ten millennia from the island's initial colonization by small groups of hunter-gatherers, through to the Medieval period. The archaeology of the entire island of Ireland will be covered with particular emphasis on the archaeology of the Burren, a remarkable upland area just south of Galway where archaeological remains of all periods are well preserved and visible.

University of Galway is ideally positioned amongst some of Ireland's most well-preserved archaeological landscapes and this course includes two field trips, the first to explore the prehistoric period with a visit to Poulgabrone Portal Tomb in the Burren in Co. Clare and the second to visit the medieval Franciscan abbey in Claregalway, Co. Galway.

Week 1: Archaeology: Introductory Class.

Understanding Material Culture. Lab Seminar – hands-on examination of artefacts, some of the basic building blocks of archaeological interpretations.

The First Colonists and the First Farmers. The Mesolithic period, c. 7000 - 4000 BC: hunter-gatherers in a forested landscape. The Neolithic period c. 3800 – 2500/2400 BC: a new way of life, the first farmers.

Week 2: Megalithic Tombs and the Age of the Ancestors. Understanding the stone temples of the early farmers.

The Age of Metal. The Chalcolithic period c. 2500/2400 – 2000 BC. The introduction of metal to Ireland is accompanied by profound social changes.

Field Seminar: The prehistoric Poulgabrone Portal Tomb in the Burren in Co. Clare.

Roughan Hill and its wedge tombs. Monuments, landscape and identity around 2000 BC. Anthropology and archaeology combine to try and explain this enigmatic group of monuments.

Week 3: Status and burial in the Early Bronze Age c. 2000 – 1500 BC. Early indications of individual status including the interesting case of 'Tara boy.'

Gold, Power and War. Chieftdoms in the later Bronze Age, c. 1500 - 600 BC.

Hierarchical chieftdoms emerge with power and wealth concentrated in the hands of a minority elite. Lecture includes the spectacular cliff-edge fort of Dún Aonghasa on the island of Inishmore which students will visit one weekend.

Field Seminar: The medieval Franciscan abbey in Claregalway, Co. Galway

Iron Age Royal Sites. Ritual, mythology and kingship come together on these long-lived sites.

Week 4: The Arrival of Christianity. The introduction of Christianity to Ireland and early monastic sites in Ireland, c. 400 AD - late 12th c. AD.

Early Medieval Settlement. The pattern of secular settlement across the landscape, c. 400 AD - late 12th c. AD (ringforts, crannogs, etc.)

Church, Pilgrimage and Art. Sites on the Aran Islands (which students visit one weekend) and sites on the Burren reveal aspects of Medieval craftsmanship and devotion.

The Vikings in Ireland. The impact of the Vikings on Ireland. Were they just brutal pillagers or is there more to the Viking legacy?

Castles in Ireland. The development of castles in Ireland from the Anglo-Norman invasion through late tower houses (which are still standing in Galway's city centre).

Essential Reading

Jones, C. 2004 The Burren and the Aran Islands - Exploring the Archaeology. Cork: The Collins Press (a facsimile copy will be available for a budget price from university copy shop).

Reading Pack – additional essential readings will be provided as PDFs on Blackboard (free).

REQUIREMENTS FOR CREDITS

1. Attendance and participation at all the scheduled lectures and field seminars.
2. One essay of 1,500 words minimum on a subject assigned by the course tutor.
3. Written examination of the material covered in the scheduled lectures and field seminars.

COURSE PROFESSOR

Mags Mannion Ph.D. (Director)

Dr Mags Mannion holds a doctorate in archaeology from the National University of Ireland, Galway where she currently lectures with the School of Geography, Archaeology and Irish Studies. Her research interests include the archaeology, art and artisans of the prehistoric, Early Christian and Viking periods in Ireland. Dr Mannion has presented her research at both national and international conferences and has published a number of papers on her research and published a book Glass beads from Early Medieval Ireland: Classification, Dating, Social performance. Mags also co-edited the conference proceedings volume from the seventh international conference on Insular art held at NUI Galway, Islands in a Global Context. Proceedings of the 7th International Conference on Insular Art, held at the National University of Ireland, Galway, 16-20 July 2014. She regularly participates in Irish heritage events presenting demonstrations and workshops on medieval bead making, body ornament and symbolism and performance.

SS117 Irish History: Conflict, Identity and the Shaping of Modern Ireland

COURSE OBJECTIVE

This course offers a survey of Irish history. The initial lecture will set the stage by considering some aspects of the early and medieval periods, but the principal focus will be on the modern centuries, beginning with the Tudor conquest of Ireland. By charting the history of Anglo-Irish relations through major political and military conflicts in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, special attention will be given to the British attempt to assimilate Ireland under the Act of Union from 1801. We will examine the mass political and social campaigns that emerged in the nineteenth century and the rise of the modern ideologies of Irish unionism and nationalism, including the influential Irish American dimension of the latter which took shape in the decades after the Great Famine (1845-50). Ultimately the course will examine the undoing of the Union between Britain and Ireland in 1921, the nature of the partition agreement which underpinned the constitutional settlement at that time, and how sustained violent conflict in Northern Ireland from the late 1960s forced politicians and political leaders in these islands and beyond to revisit the 'Irish Question'.

The approach taken in this module is thematic. Classes will consist of a mixture of lectures and discussions; and to facilitate a closer treatment of one of the central themes of the course, a class debate will take place, mid-term, in one of the historic buildings in Galway. Choice readings and links to two award-winning documentaries will be made available on the course site during term.

COURSE OUTLINE

Week 1: Induction period: setting the early modern background

The end of Gaelic Ireland: the completion of the English conquest in the 1500s
Making Ireland British: plantation and social engineering

Week 2: The seventeenth and eighteenth centuries

From the Cromwellian conquest to the Wars of the Three Kingdoms
The Protestant nation, the Catholic Question and the Act of Union

Week 3: Nineteenth-century modernisation

Class debate, Mechanics Institute, Galway: conquest and 'war crime'
The Great Famine (1845-50): accelerant of change
Changing the Irish question: Ireland, America and Empire

Week 4: The twentieth century

Easter 1916: 'a terrible beauty is born'
The independent Irish state
Northern Ireland, 1921-68

Conflict and conciliation

The Northern Ireland conflict
The 'peace process': an end to Irish history?

SS119 Creative Writing: Fiction, Memoir and Poetry

6 ECTS/ 3 US Semester Credits

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The ability to write well is not an innate talent reserved for the lucky few, but a craft that is earned slowly through paper cuts, piles of crumpled notes, and late hours spent revising. This module will take up the genres of fiction, nonfiction, and poetry, rigorously exploring what makes good writing, from the larger concepts of form to the mechanics of the sentence. Students' own work will be developed from idea to submission and will be the focus of workshopping exercises. Class time will be spent in lecture, completing writing exercises, and considering each other's work. Those who use the course properly can anticipate being a better writer by its conclusion. Module participants will also take part in several literary events around Galway City, under the supervision of the course director.

COURSE OBJECTIVE

Through various reading and writing exercises, this course will explore aspects of poetry, fiction, and memoir writing, from first steps to final polish. Students will improve the ability to work with the larger concepts of fiction and nonfiction, such as writing about the self, dialogue, grounding the narrative, interior monologue and narrative distance. They will hone their skills on the level of the sentence, writing for clarity, tone and voice, as well as use the mechanics of poetry purposefully to affect. Finally, they will learn how to approach their work with a keen eye to improve it in the editing process. Participants will attend literary events in Galway City, for which they will receive credit. Feedback will be given by the course director on in-class exercises and graded assignments. The final portfolio of each student's writing will be marked on its execution of craft and on the progress the student has made as a writer during this course.

COURSE OUTLINE

Week 1

The larger concepts of fiction, such as characterization, showing vs telling, and dialogue mechanics.

Week 2

How to use interior monologue effectively, how to make the right choices with point of view, and how to write emotion.

Week 3

Nonfiction: characterising the "I," grounding the narrative, and an in-depth analysis of beginnings and endings.

Week 4

The mechanics of poetry, including the line and the turn, and examining what makes a successful poem.

COURSE TEXTS

All texts will be provided in class.

Short Story

“Ralph the Duck,” by Frederick Busch

“Work,” by Dennis Johnson

Personal Essay

“Shooting the Cat,” by Tony Earley

“Owl,” by Tyler Keevil

“Everything I have is Yours,” by Elenor Henderson

“Turning Yourself into a Character,” by Philip Lopate

Poetry

Song of Songs 2.0 – New & Selected Poems, by Kevin Higgins

Staying Alive – Real Poems for Unreal Times, edited by Neil Astley

Requirements for Credits

1. Attendance and participation at all the scheduled talks, workshops and readings.
2. Completion of a “midterm” prose submission (800-1000 words) and a larger final piece of fiction or memoir (3500-4000 words).

Dr Ryan Dennis

Ryan Dennis is a Fulbright alumnus and PhD in creative writing, and has taught writing at five universities. He is the author of the novel The Beasts They Turned Away, published by époque press, and the memoir Barn Gothic from Island Press. His work has appeared in various literary journals and he is a syndicated columnist for agricultural print periodicals in four countries and two languages.

In addition to exploring the dynamics of rural life in literature, Ryan also seeks to serve those communities more directly. In 2020 he founded The Milk House, a literary journal that hosts the Best in Rural Writing Contest and publishes the Best in Rural Writing annual print anthology. In 2021-2022 Ryan was selected as a Writer-in-Residence at Maynooth University. As part of the residency, he created and edited Voices from the Land, a collection of short stories, essays and poems by Irish farmers.

SS120 Gaelic Literature and Culture: From Cú Chulainn to the Cultural Revival and Beyond

6 ECTS/3 US Semester Credits

COURSE OBJECTIVE

Gaelic literature is the oldest vernacular literature in Western Europe. This course covers Irish language material in translation from the twentieth century all the way back to the Middle Ages.

The first half of this module will explore the emergence and development of modern Gaelic literature from the period of the Cultural Revival in the late-nineteenth century and examine recorded Irish folklore and the oral storytelling tradition in the twentieth century. Through reading selections of Gaelic prose and poetry in translation, students gain insights into the rapid changes within Gaelic culture from the nineteenth century as represented in folklore and literature. While demonstrating an intimate awareness of formal and thematic developments in a broad range of world literatures, contemporary Gaelic prose and poetry engage closely with earlier sources within the Gaelic literary, oral, and cultural tradition.

The second half of this module will introduce the student to early Gaelic literature and give insights into the culture(s) and society which created it. Students will read and interpret a selection of texts in translation, including tales of the hero Cú Chulainn and the Ulster Cycle, and wonder tales of the Otherworld, providing an opportunity for students to engage critically with this unique corpus of literature, which was composed and further augmented over the course of a millennium.

The course develops students' understanding of the dynamic interplay between the traditional and the contemporary within Gaelic literature. A knowledge of the Irish language is not a prerequisite for the course; all classes are taught through English. Introductory classes in the Irish language will be provided to interested students.

COURSE OUTLINE

1. The Gaelic Literary Revival: Patrick Pearse and Pádraic Ó Conaire
2. Reading the Islands: The Islandman by Tomás Ó Criomhthain
3. Folklore, fairies, and food: The Schools' Collection and dúchas.ie
4. The beginnings of literacy in Ireland: An introduction to the sources and methods of interpretation of Old- and Middle-Irish literature.
5. Tales of the Ulaid (Táin Bó Cúailnge)
6. Tales of the Monastery (Early Irish Poetry)
7. Tales of the Otherworld (Echtrae ocus Immrama)
8. Mermaids and mental health? Nuala Ní Dhomhnaill's 'Na Murúcha a Thriomaigh'

COURSE PROFESSORS

Dr John Brady

John Brady is a researcher and lecturer with the Centre for Irish Studies at the University of Galway. He is the programme coordinator of the Irish Life and Culture programme organising customised interdisciplinary sessions for visiting students. He teaches courses on Irish literature in both Irish and English languages. His research focuses on small-town Irish fiction in the twentieth century, twentieth-century literature, cultural studies, memory studies, economic humanities, and spatial theory.

Andrew Levie

Andrew Levie is a PhD candidate at the University of Galway in English and Classics at the University of Galway. His PhD focuses on the overlap between Irish and English literary culture, particularly in the late sixteenth century during the Munster plantations, and the reception of classical material in these literary spheres. His doctoral research is funded by the Hardiman Scholarship.

SS121 Irish Society: Stasis and Change in the Ambiguous Republic

6 ECTS/3 US Semester Credits

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Irish Society underwent profound and relatively rapid social changes during the 20th century. In this course, we will use a sociological lens and the sociological imagination to examine some of these changes and their results. As we will see, even planned socioeconomic change can have far-reaching, unplanned social consequences. The two underlying questions we will attempt to answer as we move through the course topics are: How has Irish society been changed by the economic transformation initiated in the 1950s, and What are the main forces shaping Irish society today?

LEARNING OUTCOMES

On completion of this course, students will be able to provide a critical analysis of the social, economic, and political changes that have taken place in contemporary Irish society. They will have an understanding of how basic institutions operate within the society and the major social problems facing Irish society today.

REQUIRED READINGS

The basic texts for this course will be

- Share, Corcoran & Conway (2012) A Sociology of Ireland (4th ed if possible);
- O'Sullivan, S. (2016) Contemporary Ireland: a sociological map. University College Dublin Press;
- Bielenberg, A. and Ryan, R. (2013) An Economic History of Ireland Since Independence. London: Routledge

You will receive detailed reading suggestions for each lecture directly. The core or required readings for each lecture are listed below. Lecture notes will be on Canvas.

SS1153 Economic Policy in Ireland

6 ECTS/ 3 US Semester Credits

PREREQUISITE: Principles of Microeconomics

COURSE OBJECTIVE

This course is designed to provide students with the analytical and historical foundation for studying contemporary public policy issues in Ireland. It begins with a brief overview of how the Irish economy has evolved, with a particular focus on the past 25 years. It uses concepts from both a neoclassical and regenerative perspective to develop an economics framework that encompasses concepts of efficiency, equity, market failure, sustainability and community. This framework is applied to key public issues in areas such as housing and social protection, focusing both on a rigorous analysis of the issues and imagining solutions.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

On completion of the module the student should be able to:

- Outline how the Irish economy has evolved over the past 25 years with particular attention to key public policy objectives
- Describe the main mechanisms and social objectives of resource allocation in modern societies
- Apply the theoretical framework of market failure to examine the role of public policy in the Irish economy
- Describe the role, objective and impact of the welfare state
- Present an economic analysis of public policy in a number of sectors including health, education, income redistribution, energy and the environment
- Propose evidence-based solutions to public policy issues in these sectors

TRAVEL AND VISA ADVICE

Visas

You can check if you need a study visa on the website of the Irish Immigration Service. Detailed advice about study visas can be accessed on the Global Galway Office website. As a summer school student, you will spend approximately four weeks in Ireland and therefore do not need to register with the Garda National Immigration Bureau. When checked by immigration officials on arrival in Ireland, your passport will be stamped up to the end of your summer school course. Should you wish to stay for a longer period, you may need to liaise with the Garda National Immigration Bureau after arrival to facilitate an extension to your stay. Please ensure you bring your passport, copy email letter of offer, proof of return travel, evidence support self financially, travel & health insurance with you to show to immigration officials at your point of entry to Ireland.

Travel

The major airports in Ireland are Shannon (on the west coast, approximately 55 miles from Galway) and Dublin (on the east coast, approximately 135 miles from Galway). Shannon Airport is the closest international airport to Galway City.

1. Shannon International Airport is approximately a 2-hour drive from Galway City. Shannon Airport is serviced by Bus Éireann.
2. Dublin International Airport is approximately a 3-hour drive from Galway City. A number of bus services operate connections from Dublin Airport to Galway City centre: Citylink, GoBus and Bus Éireann. A regular train service provided by Irish Rail operates from Dublin (Heuston Station) to Galway. The Airlink bus service provides regular departures from Dublin Airport to the city centre and Heuston Station. Airlink prepaid tickets can be bought at the Bus and Rail information desk at the airport. They can also be bought from the vending machines located at the bus departure points on the arrival's road. You can get a taxi from the airport to the centre of the city, but the bus is less expensive and just as quick.
3. Ireland West Airport is approximately 1.5-hour drive from Galway City. The airport is serviced by Bus Éireann.
4. Cork International Airport is approximately 3.5 hours from Galway City and is serviced by Citylink.

Arrival in Galway

Upon your arrival at Galway Coach Park/Bus & Train Station, located adjacent to Eyre Square, several taxi services are available which can take you to check into your accommodation in the student residences Goldcrest Village. City Direct provide bus services within Galway City and operate from Eyre Square.

Tourist Information

General information may be obtained from Galway Tourist Information Centre, Forster Street. Tel. 091 537700 which is open 9am-5pm Monday-Saturday and closed Sunday.

ACCOMMODATION, COST OF LIVING AND HEALTHCARE

Accommodation

Students will be housed in self-catering apartments on campus at student residences Goldcrest Village in Galway City. Housing provides students with single rooms in fully furnished, self-catering apartments. Laundry facilities are available on site. Bed linen, crockery, etc are provided in the apartments. Student residences are approximately a 10-minute walk to classes on campus.

Cost of Living Guidelines

As kitchen/cooking facilities are available at student residence Goldcrest Village, it is cost effective to buy groceries at local supermarkets and self-cater. Allow approximately €80 - €100 per week to buy groceries. There is a small grocery store available at Corrib Village. Local supermarkets (Dunnes Stores, Eyre Square Shopping Centre and Headford Rd., Tesco, Headford Rd, Lidl, Headford Rd, Aldi, Headford Rd) are within a 15-minute walk of Corrib Village.

- Local transportation: The average bus fare within the city is €2.70. Taxis cost from €10 - €15 (Within the general Galway City area).
- Books and supplies: Approx. €60 - €80+ depending on courses chosen.
- Laundry/toiletries: Laundry at on campus student residence is coin operated and approximate costs are €3 per wash and €2 to dry (full machine loads). Toiletries can be purchased quite reasonably at supermarkets or local pharmacies.
- Social Activities: Entrance to cinemas: €9-€12 approx. student rate applies with a valid student ID card. Theatre tickets cost slightly more.

Health Care

Students can visit the following doctor's surgeries which are within walking distance of the university. Call ahead to make an appointment and to enquire if they offer student discounts for their services.

Headford Road Medical Clinic (Tel 091-565664). This service is available at a discounted student rate. Doctors Clinic located at 32 Newcastle Road, (Tel 091 520340) is a General Practitioner's Service available to students.

Doctor 365 located at University Halls, 3 Newcastle Rd, Galway, H91 WY01 (0818) 000 365

Emergency medical help

In the case of a serious accident, dial 112 for emergency services and request an ambulance.

An Accident & Emergency service is available at University College Hospital Galway. This facility is located on the Newcastle Rd, close to University of Galway.

Students with ongoing medical conditions are advised to contact the International Summer School Office (summerschool@universityofgalway.ie) in advance of arrival to discuss your medical support requirements. We advise that all students have private health insurance in place prior to arrival.

Time Management

One of the greatest challenges facing summer school students is time management. You will need to balance the commitments of attending class, doing course work and participating on field trips, while also making time to enjoy all that Galway City and its festivals have to offer. You may also want to visit other parts of Ireland while here. You will have a very busy schedule while in Galway, so it is worth considering scheduling time before the start, or at the end of the summer school to allow time to travel and enjoy a vacation.

Weather/Clothing

Ireland has a temperate climate and does not experience extremes of heat or cold. It does, however, have high rainfall levels. The weather is unpredictable and can change dramatically in a short period of time. For more advice on what to pack please see here

UNIVERSITY FACILITIES AND STUDENT SERVICES

Canvas

The virtual learning environment used at University of Galway is called Canvas. All course materials, reading lists, assessment information is uploaded to Canvas and all interactions including live lectures, discussion boards, class announcements, emails will be communicated through canvas. This online system uses your student email account as the main contact point for all programme information. You are obliged to regularly check this email account for all programme announcements and important information.

Student Campus Account

Once you are registered as a student, have activated your campus account, registered for Multi-factor Authentication \(MFA\), changed your password then you will be able to access your Student Email account, which is provided by the University in collaboration with Microsoft.

The James Hardiman Library

The James Hardiman Library is located on the main campus. Library staff provide support, help and training to support you with your studies, research, or teaching. For more information click here

Information Solutions and Services

Information Solutions and Services provide several IT Services for students and a User Support Helpdesk to trouble shoot any student IT issues. Full details of services and contacts can be found on here.

Printing Service

The print service allows users to print, copy and scan documents using the Multi-Function Printers (MFP) located around campus. Print jobs can be sent to a Multi-Function Printer (often referred to as a 'Print Queue', i.e., when you click File, Print and select your printer) via PC's \(PC Suite\), Email \(through your University of Galway e-mail account\) or How To Print Wirelessly - University of Galway. For more information, please see at Student Printing - University of Galway
