

Dr Srinivas Raghavendra is a Lecturer of Economics at the University of Ireland. Dr. Raghavendra's research is focused in the areas of Macroeconomics, Development, and Political Economy. Dr Raghavendra's research has been published in some of the leading peer-reviewed international journals including Review of Political Economy, Feminist Economics, Journal of International Development, Review of Keynesian Economics, Metroeconomica, Journal of Economics, European Journal of Economics, Review of Development, and other reputed science journals PLoS ONE, European Physics Journal B and IEEE.

Dr Raghavendra is an Associate Professor in Economics at the Azim Premji University in Bangalore in India. He has also been awarded prestigious professorships including the CNRS-CEPN Visiting Professor in Université of Sorbonne Nord, Paris, Visiting Professor at Université of Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne, Research Professor at the La Sapienza University Roma, Visiting Professor at the Johannes Kepler University in Austria, and Visiting Professor at the Indian Institute of Science in India.

Dr Raghavendra is a second-term member of the Údarás. He has consistently raised issues at the intersection between race and gender and has been a champion for diversity and equality in the University. Dr Raghavendra is also the founding chair of the International Staff Network at the University.